The Senior Leader Apprenticeship plus MBA provides apprentices with the knowledge, skills and behaviours needed to implement positive change to their organisations from the get-go.

This apprenticeship is aimed at senior leaders with significant experience looking to further build their leadership capabilities and achieve an MBA whilst facilitating and enabling collaborative leadership learning and development across an ICS.

Taught by academics from our school of Health & Care Management, the course provides contextualised learning covering modules such as Ethical Leadership, Implementing Strategy, Leading Transitions, and more.

As well as achieving a Level 7 Senior Leader Apprenticeship, students at Arden will also receive a Master of Business Administration at no additional cost. Learners will attend live sessions with academics and have an assigned professional coach who will support them to continually apply their learning into their workplace .

Not only does developing senior managers or executives help maximise the success of organisations, investing in employees is also essential for organisations preparing for the challenges ahead. Businesses that develop current staff with change management skills can help enhance productivity and planning as well as bridge vulnerabilities within the workforce.

In order to ensure business stability and continuity, modern managers and leaders need to be agile, resilient and capable digital leaders. Readyng these current and future leaders with the business skills they require benefits both the employer and the employee.

CMI accreditation

Upon completion of the Level 7 Senior Leader apprenticeship, learners will also be awarded with the CMI Diploma in Strategic Management and Leadership Pen-GBt(apprn)-1 le

Personal & Business Transformation (20 credits)

This module provides an opportunity for you to develop both personal and business skills. You will first evaluate and build upon your existing abilities in self-assessment and management, as well as developing new skills for personal and future career development. The module will then examine how these skills contribute to effective leadership and management in the workplace from a structural and relational perspective and within different organisational contexts. The link between change, HR, and corporate strategy will also be explored.

Ethical Leadership (20 credits)

The aim of this module is to develop your understanding of the role of ethics in leadership and business success. It will explore ethical leadership, its role in setting the moral and cultural tone for the institution while building stakeholder confidence through transparency and accountability. You will have the opportunity to explore real-world ethical dilemmas, how they arise and affect business decision making, and how this in turn determines the ethical climate.

Managing within a collaborative, yet resource competitive environment within health and care systems (20 credits)

Drawing upon marketing, strategy and finance, incorporating resource management, integration and collaboration within health and care systems, this module will examine how

Implementing Strategy (20 credits)

By introducing strategic management theories within a range of organisational contexts, this module aims to develop your appreciation of strategy identification, direction, and purpose. This will be defined through an analysis of mission, values, and vision within the broader purpose of an organisation and within an ethically sound context. The module will also consider corporate social responsibility and an organisation's ability to successfully

Workplace Project (60 credits)

Building on the taught element of the programme, the final module will provide you with the opportunity to plan and execute a substantial work-based project on a relevant topic of your choice. With our guidance you will independently develop your project from conception to delivery, demonstrating your transferable project management skills with real-world applications.
