

Practical approaches to board or trustee recruitment in

This research was part of Skills for Care's research focused on Good governance: the benefits of board and trustee support

It is aimed at services who either have a non-executive board or board of trustees (hereby referred to as board / trustees) and will explain how to successfully recruit and induct them into your service.

The Care Quality Commission (CQC) does not dictate if a service needs a board / trustees, but all charities will require a board of trustees and public limited companies require non-executive board members. Increasingly, non-e
